

A SONG WRITTEN FOR NIC

Forever and Always

Just because

1:40

4:55

I never expected the day that would bring you into my life,
We met without a warning, yet somehow everything felt right.
There was something in your laughter that made the world
feel light,
And something in your gentle heart that made me want to stay that night.
You care in all the little ways that people sometimes miss,
You make me laugh when days get heavy, then calm me with a kiss.
So kind, so strong, so passionate, with loyalty running true,
I never planned our story, but I'm so glad it led to you.

*Nic, you will be my forever and always, wherever this life may go, Through every change and every season, there's one thing I will always know.
When the world feels uncertain, I'll still choose your hand
in mine,
Because loving you feels like finding the place I was meant to find.*

We have known what it means when life leaves an empty space,
When loss changes everything and sadness cannot simply be erased.
But I have watched your courage when the road was hard to face,
And seen your quiet strength keep shining even through the darkest days.
You're brave without pretending that you never feel the pain,
You keep giving love and kindness even standing in the rain.
And somehow there are still those things that make me smile at you,
Frisly socks and patent shoes, those little details that feel so perfectly true.

*Nic, you will be my forever and always, wherever this life may go, Through every change and every season, there's one thing I will always know.
When the world feels uncertain, I'll still choose your hand
in mine,
Because loving you feels like finding the place I was meant to find.*

I cannot promise every chapter will be easy from here on,
But I can promise I'll stand beside you when another day feels long.
For every laugh, every tear, every memory still to come,
I want the ordinary days with you, not only the beautiful ones.

*Nic, you will be my forever and always, wherever this life may go, Through every change and every season, there's one thing I will always know.
Whatever tomorrow brings us, I'll still choose your hand in mine,
Because loving you is the forever I will choose for all of time.*

*You came into my life unexpectedly, and somehow became my home,
My forever and always, through every road still left to roam.*

Scan to listen to your song

YOURMELODY
ORIGINAL EDITION • NO. 21342