

A SONG WRITTEN FOR BOB

Timeless Love's Journey

Tribute

1:32

4:30

From state fairs to coffee houses, side by side
From coast to coast, you travelled on the road
I was growing up; you were my steady guide
Your hand in mine made every mile glow
You never judged, you let my young heart free
Safe in your care, you asked for nothing from me

*Bob, fifty years later, now I know
You loved me more than words could ever show
Your love still shines, a light that's all my own
Better than any man I've known*

At the 21 Club, the doors swung wide
On my birthday, you stood there by my side
At college, drunk, you called to marry me
Then dropped the phone and left the line set free
At the airport, there were no words to say
We knew our love affair had reached its end
Just sadness as you took me on my way
The silence was the last thing we could send

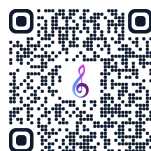

*Bob, fifty years later, now I know
You loved me more than words could ever show
Your love still shines, a light that's all my own
Better than any man I've known*

That posh San Francisco hotel stood tall
Your drinking made the whole night fall
At nineteen, I still needed to be free
At thirty-eight, you understood me
You opened every door along the way
And paid for everything with grace
You asked for nothing, let me choose my way
I saw your love in every place

This is my tribute, soft and true
I'll hold the freedom that you gave to me
The way you loved me still comes shining through
I carry safety, love, and liberty

*Bob, fifty years later, now I know
You loved me more than words could ever show
Your love still shines, a light that's all my own
Better than any man I've known*

*Your hand in mine still warms the fading light
Across the miles, it leads me through the night*
