A SONG WRITTEN FOR BILL/BILLY

Thirty-Five Years, Still You

35th Wedding Anniversary

Country Love Ballad · Female Vocals · 35th Wedding Anniversary

We met in high school, just two kids back then,
Ten years went by before our story began.
July of eighty-seven, a Braves baseball game,
In your fifty-seven Galaxie, everything changed.
October nineteenth, nineteen ninety-one,
At Saint Augustine Lighthouse, our forever begun.
At the White Lion Tavern, with friends by our side,
We watched the Braves' first World Series game that night.

> Billy, thirty-five years, and I'd choose you again,
> Through every new beginning, every road and bend.
> From that first baseball game to the life we've made,
> I'd fall in love with you again, every single day.

Five years along the Eastern Coast, we chased the ocean blue,
From lighthouse to lighthouse, discovering something new.
Then Christian came, our Chip, your little baseball star,
You coached his Little League team and taught him to aim far.
Then Grayce arrived and filled our home with song,
You cheered at every recital, proud all along.
Hawaii, New Hampshire, Maine, and Alaska too,
Every place became a memory because I shared it with you.

> Billy, thirty-five years, and I'd choose you again,
> Through every new beginning, every road and bend.
> From that first baseball game to the life we've made,
> I'd fall in love with you again, every single day.

Now both our children have found someone to love,
Two weddings to plan, so much to dream of.
And as they start their stories, I'm so thankful to see,
The kind of love we've shown them through our own family.

> Billy, thirty-five years, and I'd choose you again,
> Through every new beginning, every road and bend.
> From that first baseball game to the life we've made,
> I'd fall in love with you again, every single day.

After thirty-five years, my heart still belongs to you,
Forever your Kathy, still so in love with you.

Scan to listen to your song