

A SONG WRITTEN FOR DAN

Enduring Love's Journey

Anniversary

1:07

3:17

I worked the department store floor
Shoplifted goods brought you through the door
You policed the town center each day
Our talks would always light the way
At work, our talks brought trouble near
We fell in love, so bright and clear

*Dan, thirty years, you're still my pride
Each day, I love you even more
I'm proud to stand here by your side
More than I did before*

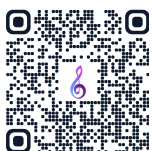

We left our marriages behind
And made a home where love could grow
Some family turned their hearts away
But some could see our love would stay
You had two children to hold near
Your ex made hard days hard to bear
We had a son, and life grew bright
Each step together felt more right

*Dan, thirty years, you're still my pride
Each day, I love you even more
I'm proud to stand here by your side
More than I did before*

On this anniversary, I say
I choose your hand again today
Through every mile still left to go
You're home wherever life may flow

*Dan, thirty years, you're still my pride
Each day, I love you even more
I'm proud to stand here by your side
More than I did before*

*The town center fades into night
Thirty years, your hand holds mine tight*

Scan to listen to your song

YOURMELODY

ORIGINAL EDITION • NO. 22615