

A SONG WRITTEN FOR JEFF

Lasting Love's Embrace

Birthday

1:01

2:58

On mornings I'm not working, coffee's there
Beside our bed, you set it down with care
You hold my hand and make the whole day bright

I feel the luckiest woman every night
On my last day, a cocktail in the driveway
You turn my long week into holiday

*Jeff, on your birthday, I thank you, dear
For loving me so deeply every day
You make me feel special year by year
I'm blessed to be your last love, come what may*

Back when we were young, we knew each other
We both had other loves to tend back then
Thirty years passed, we found one another
Alone, we fell in love in the end
A year went by, and we got engaged
On Valentine's Day, we married, too
Together, we turned to a brighter page
I found my home each day with you

*Jeff, on your birthday, I thank you, dear
For loving me so deeply every day
You make me feel special year by year
I'm blessed to be your last love, come what may*

Within thirteen years, we said goodbye
We lost our parents, side by side
I'll keep your hand in mine for years
And love you through our joys and tears

*Jeff, on your birthday, I thank you, dear
For loving me so deeply every day
You make me feel special year by year
I'm blessed to be your last love, come what may*

*Coffee beside our bed, your hand in mine
That little warmth will always make me shine*
