A SONG WRITTEN FOR ANDREW

Forever Blooming

Anniversary

1:06 3:15

We flirted while the snow fell all around You changed the song words to make me smile
Old comedies kept us up till three a.m.
Your laughter felt like home to me
Late night beach walks finding shells
Secret discoveries amongst autumn leaves

> Just like the lily, my love for you still blooms
> Your laughter makes a brighter room
> No season makes my love decrease
> Forever blooming, bringing us peace

When loss took my best friend and your brother
You found your way back to God, back to us
You chose our marriage once again
October seventeenth, I said, “I do”
In two thousand nine, we chose each other
That promise still is strong and true
And still it leads us through each day

> Just like the lily, my love for you still blooms
> Your laughter makes a brighter room
> No season makes my love decrease
> Forever blooming, bringing us peace

I hate the way you put my vases in the dishwasher, but I love you anyways
I hate the way you mess up my flower garden, but I love you anyways On this anniversary of seventeen years, don't let your heart fear, You're still the one I choose, every moment of every day

> Andrew, like the lily, my love for you > still blooms
> Your laughter makes a brighter room
> No season makes my love decrease
> Forever blooming, bringing us peace

Like the lily that grew stronger with every year,
My love for you will never stop blooming
